Fargo, ND– The Fargo Moorhead Opera is thrilled about its upcoming 2009-2010 season. It starts with the world’s most popular opera, Puccini’s La Bohème on October 30th at 8pm and November 1st at 2pm. Then December 12th and 13th at 2pm brings the return of the classic holiday production of Amahl and the Night Visitors at the Historic Fargo Theatre. The season comes to close with the Verdi’s thrilling, La Traviata, April 9th at 8pm and April 11th at 2pm.

La Bohème features a wonderful cast of young (and gorgeous) up-and-comers that you won’t want to miss, and then Amahl and the Night Visitors is sure to delight the whole family and be great memory for years to come. Finally, La Traviata brings back North Dakota native, Korliss Uecker for a fantastic showcase of her talents.

Season tickets are still available, but are selling fast. Be sure to make reservations now to insure you get the best seats available for this breathtaking season.
